The head slightly resembles that of a sheep, and the name "Drum" is believed to have resulted from the fact that on either side of the head there is a cavity containing a stone which creates a purring or rattling noise when the head is shaken vigorously.

Deaths and Funerals

DR. GERALD FOSTER DENYES
Funeral services were held Thursday in the William Hamilton Mortuary, Detroit, for Dr. Gerald Foster Denyes, 57, former Toledo eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, and native of Odessa, who died recently of a heart ailment in Good Samaritan Hospital, West Palm Beach, Fla., following an illness of three weeks. Interment took place in Woodlawn Cemetery, Detroit.

Dr. Denyes graduated from Queen's University in 1916, and enrolled for post-graduate work in New York University in 1929, specializing in ophthalmology, the science of the eye, and otolaryngology, pertaining to the throat. He continued his study in Budapest, Hungary.

First practicing medicine near Odessa, Dr. Denyes moved to Perrysburg in 1925, where he engaged in general practice until enrolling in the NYU four years later. He came to Toledo in 1931, and practiced here until last January when he retired because of ill health and moved to Delray Beach, Fla.

Noted as an eye and throat surgeon, Dr. Denyes was a member of the staffs of Toledo and Mercy Hospitals and the consulting staff of Flower Hospital.

He was certified in 1940 by the American Board of Otolaryngology and was a member of the Toledo Academy of Medicine, Ohio State Medical Association, American Medical Association, and American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology. He also belonged to Inverness Country Club.

During World War I, Dr. Denyes served in Egypt with the Canadian Army.

Surviving are his wife, Alice; son Michael F. Denyes, Delray

Beach; sister, Mrs. Hazel Denyes, New York City, and brother Shelly A. Denyes, Odessa.

DR. ERIC BOND

The funeral services for the late Dr. Eric Warren Bond were held in the Campbell funeral home, Elgin, conducted by Rev. R. W. McLauchlin of St. James' United Church, Ottawa. Interment was made in the Halladay Cemetery at Elgin, the burial service being under the Masonic Order.

Dr. Bond died suddenly at his home, 325 Clemow avenue, Ottawa, in his 62nd year.

Born in Lancashire, England, son of Joshua Bond and his wife, Emma Hamilton, he came to Canada at an early age. He was employed in the poultry pathology division of the Department of Agriculture for a number of years until ill health forced his retirement in 1952.

Dr. Bond was an elder in St. James' United Church, Ottawa, and a member of Harmony Lodge, AF and AM, No. 370, Delta, Ont., since 1925.

Dr. Bond saw service in World War I from 1914 to 1918.

Surviving are his wife, the former Frankie Bresee; two brothers, Robert, of Delta, and Harold, of Portland, Ont.; one sister, Mrs. Wilfred McCracken (Kathleen), of Sleby, Ont., as well as several nieces and nephews.

The funeral was largely attended by friends from Ottawa, Kingston and the surrounding district, and included the elders from St. James' United Church, Ottawa, and former associates of the Department of Agriculture.

The esteem in which Dr. Bond was held was indicated by the large number of floral tributes received.

Jacob Denyes.

An old family in Thurlow is the Denyes family, descended from Jacob Denyes. The present generation is largely found in the townships of Thurlow and Sidney, including the city of Belleville.

Jacob Denyes was a native of Lennox, but came as a young man to the county of Hastings, and settled in the township of Thurlow, where he became a successful farmer and a highly respected citizen. His children, in their turn, sustained themselves as worthy and representative members of the community; and, through intermarriage, the Denyes family has become connected with many other families of the Bay of Quinte District.

Jacob Denyes married Sarah, daughter of John Lake, the Sidney pioneer. Mr. Denyes for years took an active and intelligent interest in the affairs of the community, and both he and his faithful wife made every effort to afford their children the benefits of Christian training and careful education.

Philip Denyes, ninth child and fourth son of Jacob Denyes, is a successful and highly respected farmer, formerly of Thurlow, but now a resident of Sidney township. He married first Ida Reed, and second Rilla Jones. The family belong to the Methodist Church. Although of retiring disposition, Mr. Denyes is a model citizen, and interested in everything that makes for the betterment of the community.

Biography

They celebrated their golden wedding in 1946. Mrs. Denyes died in 1949.

In 1953, Mr. Denyes married Mrs. Edith Hartman of Toronto, who died in 1960, at which time he returned to make his home with his sons and daughter.

His son, Ford still operates the farm on Highway 2, about four miles west of Odessa. The farm is next to the Fourth Line Church, members of the family have always been strong supporters of the church, serving on the official board, as well as many other committees, and singing in the choir.

Mrs. Denyes was organist of the church for many years until ill health prevented her from continuing.

Mr. Denyes has one living sister, Mrs. Annie Sproule of Odessa.

Many old friends and neighbors dropped in during the day to wish Mr. Denyes many happy returns, as he now joins the "over-90" club.

SILLSVILLE

The calendar says it's summer, but the weather of late leaves us wondering if perhaps we are looking at the wrong month. Here's hoping we have a nice autumn coming up.

Regardless of the weather, however, it is still vacation time, and many local people are making the most of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Mellow recently enjoyed a cruise to Gananoque with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Benn aboard Mr. Benn's yacht. They attended a family gathering celebrating the birthday of Mrs. Mellow's father, Mr. John Benn, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ivon Simkins.

Mrs. William Tibbutt, Sr., spent the week-end at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Tibbutt, Jr.

Gary Young, accompanied by Bill and Basil Young, motored to Detroit at the week-end. While there, they attended the Grand National Stock Car races.

Mr. and Mrs. John Magee enjoyed a holiday week-end in Prescott.

Miss Debby Wilkinson is vacationing in Toronto and in the Ottawa area this week, accompanied by Miss Ruth Boyce of Kingston.

Denyes Family Has Reunion<sup>1974</sup>

The annual Denyes family reunion was held recently at Zwick Memorial Park at Belleville. Due to holidays, tours, illness and summer heat, attendance was smaller than usual.

Drury Denyes offered Grace and the presidents, Lionel and Janice Bovay, and family, who had gone to Western Canada on holidays, arranged for Merrit and Eleanor Waite to carry out their duties, which they did ably.

During the business session the reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and approved. A welcome was extended to all, including four newcomers, Mrs. Bessie Balmforth, Meaford, and Lorne, Doris and Janet Urch, of Port Hope.

A minutes silence was observed in memory of five cousins who had died during the year: Walter Denyes, Belleville; Mrs. Hugh Badgely, Wooler; Mrs. Marvin MacDonnell (formerly Beryl Johnson), Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Otho Denyes, Belleville, and Frank Knox, Toronto.

Three deceased cousins who had lived in the area and done much to make the reunion meetings a pleasure were Fred Denyes, and his son, Walter, and Mrs. Otho Denyes (nee Jerainy). Thanks to past officers was expressed for their good work for two years.

New officers are: Merrit and Eleanor Waite, presidents; Miss Helen Sproule, of Odessa, secretary-treasurer; Wayne and Eleanor Waite, sports committee; Brian, Stuart, Sandra Denyes, awards; Mrs. Ford Denyes, Kingston, and Mrs. Drury Denyes, Belleville, flowers; Mrs. Walter Denyes, picnic planner.

This concluded the business and awards were presented as follows:

Mrs. George Lucas, Napanee, oldest woman present; Otho Denyes, Belleville, oldest man; Robert Wayne Waite (three weeks), son of Wayne and Eleanor Waite, youngest child; Mrs. Bessie Balmforth, person travelling longest distance (Meaford, 243 miles); woman married longest time to same man, Mrs. Earl Denyes, Morven (56 years); man with oldest car, Stanley Sproule, Kingston (1961).

Best wishes were expressed to cousins who were ill. Several absent members sent best wishes. The sport committee entertained and later everyone enrolled in the Denyes book and looked at the collection of family pictures.

It was decided to ask permission to hold the 1975 reunion at the lovely Zwick Park again, which is central, clean and cool.

Family members were asked to wear name tags at next year's reunion to be held the second Sunday in July. 1974

BLUE ANGEL MOTEL

HELPS OUT — Dr. H. Arliss Denyes, assistant professor of biology at Queen's University, is shown with one of the "guinea-pigs" used by biologists—a hamster in this case. By observing the little animal and his fellows under laboratory conditions, Dr. Denyes is learning something about the mysterious hibernation process.

Queen's Biologist Probes Mysteries of Hibernation

The mystery of hibernation — how an animal can reduce its body temperature to within a few degrees of freezing, maintain this temperature for a period, and then return to normal with no ill effects — is one of the fascinating research problems under study by Dr. H. Arliss Denyes, assistant professor of biology at Queen's University.

Hamsters have been used for several years by Dr. Denyes in her experimental work in the biology laboratories of the Old Arts building at Queen's University. These are brown and white rat-like animals which have cheek pouches for carrying food. She uses about 100 hamsters in her experiments each year.

In studying the hibernation process, Dr. Denyes keeps the hamsters in cages in the cold room of her laboratory. The temperature is constant at about six degrees Centigrade, or 42.8 degrees F. After 12 weeks in the cold room the animals start to hibernate. They stay in the hibernating state for three or four days, and then come out to eat. Having satisfied their hunger, they go back into hibernation for three or four days, and repeat the process.

In entering the state of hibernation, the hamster reduce their body temperature about 30 degrees in a few hours, to a point a few degrees above freezing. In the natural state they are able to survive several days to a week at temperatures from five to six degrees C.

Watching the animal come out of hibernation is a dramatic performance, says Dr. Denyes. At first the hamster is cold to touch and apparently lifeless. As the body temperature slowly rises, the animal's heart beats very rapidly, breathing is faster than normal, and the legs twitch violently. In a warm room the hamster's body temperature rises about 30 degrees in an hour. In a cold room it takes about three hours to rise.

Dr. Denyes' particular interest is cellular metabolism. She studies how metabolism occurs in the hamster as it prepares for hibernation, and what happens when it comes out of hibernation. Metabolism is the process by which the living cell or the organism takes food and builds it up into living matter, and also how living matter is broken down into its chemical elements.

"The metabolism of a single cell is so complicated that it is impossible in one thought to conceive of its many integrated operations," said Dr. Denyes. "You have to take different parts of metabolism, work these out separately, and then try to fit them together into one scheme."

Dr. Denyes is starting a new series of experiments in this field. She is using radioactive isotopes in order to find out more detail about intermediary metabolism. These isotopes are tagged atoms whose conversions in the hamster's tissues can be traced by the use of a geiger counter.

Dr. Denyes' work in cellular metabolism is supported by grants from the National Science Foundation of the USA, the Ontario Research Foundation, the National Research Council and Queen's University.

Scientists have recognized Dr. Denyes for her work in hibernation, for recently she was one of four women scientists invited to give a paper on her research, and the only woman scientist from Canada.

The paper was given at the First International Conference on Natural Mammalian Hibernation, called by the Office of Naval Research of the USA under the auspices of the American Institute of Biological Scientists, held in Boston, Mass. Delegates were present from Canada, the USA, Austria, Germany, France, Finland, Sweden and two Russian scientists accepted the invitation but did not appear at the sessions.

Purpose of the conference was to find out what the different laboratories were doing in hibernation, how they were doing it, and to determine future action. An important part of the conference was the discussions held by the scientists after conference hours when they talked over their mutual problems informally.

Born at Twed, Dr. Denyes was brought up in Kingston. She is a graduate of Havergal Ladies College, Toronto, and Queen's University, graduating in 1945 with the honors BA in biology. University of Michigan awarded her the MS and the Ph D. She taught for six years at Florida State University before accepting an appointment to Queen's in 1956. Assistant professor of biology, Dr. Denyes is keenly interested in research as well as in teaching.

This group is one of the largest donors to the school, and has made comparable gifts annually for the past five years. A commendable feat considering the club consists of 12 women. The Maytime Tea held at the La Salle Hotel was for the purpose of raising this money and the above mentioned cheque represents the proceeds from this Tea.

Ballet? I think I may go out for the Georgia Tech football team. I'm already a rambling wreck and I bet with a little direction from Coach Bobby Dodd I'd be a star broken field runner.

In fact, even if Coach Dodd doesn't take me on as a player he might like to have the benefit of my counsel on the practice field. I've seen pictures of football players improving their footwork by tripping lightly through a mess of old tires. I've seen them fling themselves against sandbags and leap over hurdles. And they think that's rugged training?

What they need is the course I've been negotiating in the early morning hours since my daughters came home from boarding school and since we acquired a new puppy.

This is the way the field is set up: Take two young maidens

Woman Geologist Honored

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Helen M. Belyea has developed her childhood interest in rocks into a career as a geologist, a field she considers is well-suited to women.

A native of Saint John, N.B., she has worked in Calgary for the last 14 years with the Geological Survey of Canada.

Petite and quiet-spoken, she was interviewed here while in Montreal for the conference of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy. At this meeting she was awarded a special medal for producing the leading paper on economic geology produced by the Institute in the last year, believed the first woman so honored.

Geology and the oil and natural gas industries hold fine promise for women interested in careers, says Dr. Belyea.

Spotlight On "The Great River"

By Nancy Cleaver

"Up the St. Lawrence comes the Spring again, Crowning each southward hill And blossoming pool with beauty, while I roam Far from the perilous folds that are my home?"

In Pere Lalemont, a poem by Marjorie Pickthall, the pioneer French Canadian missionary asks this question. Like many of his fellow workers, he met a martyr's death at the hands of the Indians, but he had known and loved "The Great River".

Almost four and a quarter centuries ago, Jacques Cartier, the explorer, was amazed by the magnitude of the river, which in 80 miles across where it merges with the Gulf by the same name. He called it "The Great River", but later named it after a Saint because he sailed into the Gulf on August 10th, the Feast Day of St. Lawrence.

Later Cartier wrote, "The men did certify unto us that there was the beginning of the great river, the roadway to Canada, which river the farther it went, the narrower it became, even into Canada." Champlain, the Father of New France, established his settlement on the lofty cliff at Quebec.

The waters of the St. Lawrence flow more than two thousand miles to reach the sea. Over this path the early explorers, missionaries and fur traders travelled. For two centuries most of Canada was near the great river. Along its banks the first French farmers built their homes.

The St. Lawrence is the largest body of fresh water in the world. The Book of Knowledge makes this comment: "If inferior in breadth to the mighty Amazon, if lacking the length of the Mississippi, if missing the ancient castles of the Rhine, if wanting the lonely grandeur that overhangs the Congo, the majestic St. Lawrence has features as remarkable as any of these."

The St. Lawrence, Canada's highway to the sea, like other great rivers of the world, has inspired artists, musicians, writers. This was the comment which appeared under an early print of the River St. Lawrence by G. B. Fisher, "The view is one of the most striking scenes which this country affords". Last September the premiere of "The St. Lawrence Suite" by the U.S. composer, Morton Gould, was performed by the fifty piece band of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps.

The "Thousand Islands" of the great river are nearer two thousand. It has been our privilege to camp several summers near Gananoque on Beau Rivage Island. We have driven along the lovely shores of the St. Lawrence and looked at the curving river from the top of Mount Royal. From the high bluff at Quebec City we have looked down on the dark water below. We have seen the rugged North shore and the fishermen's dwellings along the south shore, too.

In the legend "The Tree of Dreams" by Marius Barbeau, a Mohawk Indian comments about the St. Lawrence, "The great river never stops. Its waters roll onward forever." The Jesuit missionary to whom he spoke answered, "If it is so, and so it shall ever be!"

This Spring and Summer when the St. Lawrence is in the lime-light, why not encourage your school-age son or daughter to clip out accounts in the newspapers describing the Opening of the Seaway? If you can, make the radio or TV reports of the ceremonies on June 26th, an enjoyable home occasion.

(Watch next week for "The St. Lawrence — Great Lake Seaway.")

auditor, we have no alternative but to follow in their footsteps, if we are going to stay in business.

When we took over the newspaper from the former owner, George Stout, on May 1, 1964, the $3 per year paid for the paper, ink and postage for one paper for one year, all the other costs, the wages, lights, heat, power, photographs, established in 1887, and all we ask is that we be permitted to operate at a reasonable profit, the same as any other businessman expects. We are not asking anything unreasonable at all, in boosting the price of this newspaper 50 cents a year, when all business factors are considered." — The News.
